

Times of Inattention

Write down a schedule of a typical day for your child. You can make extra copies of this schedule to reflect weekend versus school days. Identify which times of day your child has the most trouble with attention and focus and make a note next to the activities they do at those times.

Time of Day	Activity	Consequences