

My Personal Bubble

Your personal bubble is the invisible space around your body. When you are talking with other people, there are rules for how close or far away you should stand, depending on how well you know them. In the diagram below, fill in names of friends, family, and community members that you think fit into each zone. How does it make you feel to have people stand in each zone?

